true national greatness the world has ever witnessed. We have demonstrated the practicality of popular government and have furnished the model for other people's. We have accumulated, by purchase and conquest, a vast domain, and have successfully ruled it by a strong central power established by consent of the people. We have recognized, in all our laws, the higher power and the higher law that rules the wider domain of the universe. We have legislated in the interest of morality and virtue. We have been just in peace, merciful in war, patient in defeat, magnanimous in victory, and now, on this the one hundred and twenty-third anniversary of our independence, the American people can show to the world a history with no page of dishonor, a flag without a stain, a government without a flaw, a freedom with no reservation or qualification in the interest of tyranny, and a serene consciousness that, so long as these conditions are maintained, we shall wax stronger and stronger. So mote it be.

DIED.

Charles E. Lokken, Register of Deeds of Oneida County.

Chas. E. Lokken died at his home in this city Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, of consumption, aged 75 years. He had been afflicted with the disease for nearly two years, and during the past few weeks his friends had noticed that he was failing rapidly.

Deceased was born at Kongberg, Norway, October 11, 1824. He came to America in 1849, and settled in Rhinelander about two years later, being among her earliest settlers, and has resided here ever since. He was an employee of the Brown Bros. Lumber Co. until a year ago last fall, when his health failing, he was obliged to quit mill work. After leaving the employ of this firm he started a restaurant on the North Side. His health continuing to fail, he went to the Hot Springs, Ark., hoping to be benefited by the change. He remained there six months, and was considerably improved in health when he came back, but it was of short duration.

He was an ardent republican, and last fall his party made him its candidate for register of deeds, to which office he was elected by a good majority. He has given the office his personal attention and attended to its duties faithfully and well until a week before his death, when he was obliged to give up. He was only confined to his bed one day.

Mr. Lokken was married to Miss Carrie Nely in this city Dec. 25, 1861. Two little daughters, Clara and Gunda, aged 4 and 6 years, blessed their union, and are left to comfort the mother in her great sorrow. He also leaves a mother, brother and sister in Norway, and a brother and sister in this city, to mourn.

Funeral services were held at his late residence on the North Side Tuesday afternoon, which were attended by a large number of sympathizing friends. Rev. J. B. Reinhardt, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church, of which deceased was a consistent member, officiated. The remains were laid to rest in Forest Home cemetery.

A Good Company.

The performance by Heywood's Celebrities at the Grand last Thursday night was as refreshing to the audience as the cool breeze would be to the heated brow. The company, while not numbering a dozen, did more than many an aggregation of twice their number—it pleased those in attendance. The entertainment was modest and refined, music, pathos and humor, all were combined for the edification of the crowd and there was talent in the company to spare. It is doubtful if an audience better pleased ever left the theatre.

MURDER AT HARSHAW

Charles F. Ball, a Saloon keeper, Shot and Instantly Killed by an Unknown Assassin.

Word was received from Harshaw last Thursday afternoon of a murder in cold blood, Charles F. Ball, a saloon keeper, being the victim of an assassin's bullet.

Chief of Police Crowe received a telegram stating that Ball had been shot and requesting that his wife, who was visiting here, be notified.

Mrs. Ball, accompanied by Under-Sheriff Cobban and Acting District Attorney, Dave Walker, and the Coroner left for Harshaw by the first train.

Ball was found near the end of the bar in his saloon with a bullet hole in his head. A pouch laid near him which contained but a few cents and the till had been rifled. Robbery had evidently been the cause of the crime for it had been noted about that the saloon keeper was to have received a considerable sum of money the day previous. It was a peculiar coincidence that Mrs. Ball, the dead man's wife, was in the Merchant's State Bank after the money when the telegram was handed to her announcing the murder.

A mask, which had evidently been used by the assassin, was found near by and foot prints were to be seen in the sand outside the back door which had been made by a man wearing a No. 7 shoe, nearly new.

Ernest Day, a woodsman, appeared to know considerable about the case and upon examination testified that he had been standing a short distance from the saloon shortly after eleven o'clock Wednesday night when he heard a shot fired. It came from Ball's place and Day went in. The lights were out and in the semi-darkness he said he saw the figure of a man standing well within the building. The man told Day to remain there while he went out and Day, thinking that the voice was Ball's, sat down and waited, but, it appears, did not investigate the cause of the shot. He kept his seat, he said, until after one o'clock the following morning, when he decided that the man he had supposed was Ball was not coming back. In the morning he told several men he met of the strange occurrence of the night before and in their company again entered the saloon, where the dead body of the proprietor was discovered as stated above.

Day's story was not as well connected as it might have been. His mind seemed to be confused, and in one of his stories he gave the hour of the shooting as 2 o'clock instead of after 11 as he stated at first. Day was bound over to appear as a witness for the state. He furnished bonds for his appearance.

The wife of the murdered man was inclined to the belief that Frank, or as he was more familiarly known, "Reddy" Hill, a former partner of Mr. Ball in the saloon business, knew considerable about the crime, and as it was learned that there had been differences between Hill and the dead man, and that the former had been seen in Harshaw the day of the murder, his arrest was ordered. Hill was taken into custody at Crandon by Sheriff Woodbury, of Forest county, last Saturday. He disclaimed all knowledge of the crime. He is held in the county jail pending examination. It is thought that Hill will be able to establish an alibi.

A reward of $2000 has been offered by Oneida county for the apprehension and conviction of the murderers, it being presumed that two men are connected with the crime. One man is described as being of good size with heavy set shoulders. He wore light pants, black coat and black stiff hat. The other is said to be a small man, light complexion, sandy hair. He wore a pair of No. 7 shoes, nearly new.

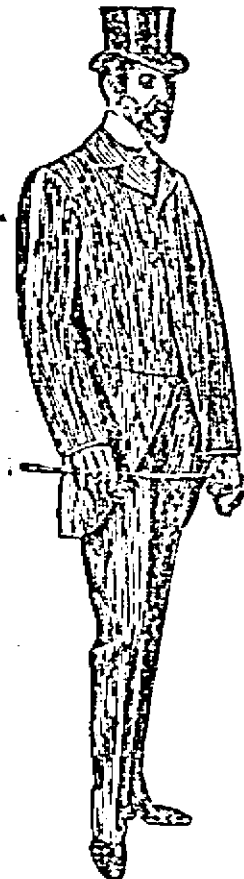

The men were supposed to have gone in a southerly direction after committing the crime.

The remains of the murdered man were brought here for burial Saturday night, the funeral being held at the Congregational church Sunday afternoon by Rev. G. H. Kemp. Large numbers viewed the corpse as it lay in the undertaking rooms of F. Hildebrand. The interment was in Forest Home cemetery.

SUCCESSFUL FOURTH.

The Day Fittingly Observed in Rhinelander. An Enjoyable Time For Everybody.

Tuesday was such a Fourth of July as the enthusiastic small boy would pray for. The early morning gave great promise and before the sun was up the cannon and giant fire crackers made sleep out of the question. Green trees were in evidence in front of many of the business places and bunting and flags were displayed prominently.

The streets were well filled at an early hour and men and boys in their best suits and women in all their summer finery were numerous. The parade formed on shortly after 10 o'clock, headed by the mayor, speaker and city officers. Field's Military Band followed and then came Co. L, the local state militia, and the G. A. R. and drum corps. These were followed by civic societies and floats, the calithumpians, fire companies, etc. After marching through the principal streets the parade arrived at the city park where exercises fitting the day were held.

The band played a selection, after which the declaration of Independence was read by Prof. Hyer. The Rhinelander Liederkreis then sang one of the National anthems in a very pleasing manner. The speaker of the day, Rev. Father Bally, of Saint Mary's church delivered one of the best orations ever listened to in the city. In his speech Rev. Bally eulogized General Washington and held him and his accomplishments high over the commanding generals of Europe. While conceding the ability and genius of Napoleon, Rev. Bally said the victory of General Washington and his handful of colonists was the grandest achievement ever chronicled in modern warfare. The speaker's remarks on our present war and also our schools were laudatory and called forth many expressions of appreciation from his hearers. His delivery was good and his remarks were plainly heard by the big crowd in the park. He was enthusiastically applauded, the vigorous appreciation of the crowd often causing him to pause in his address.

The customary sports came off as usual, in the afternoon, and were witnessed by a large number of people. Much interest was manifested. There was no trouble in finding contestants and the rivalry between them was spirited. We are unable, owing to lack of space, to give the names of the victors.

The hose run on Stevens street by Company No. 1 was a marvel of speed. The big wagon with its load of hose and men started opposite Joslin & Chaffee's livery barn and made the run to the hydrant at the Davenport street corner. When the team reached the Rapids House a stop watch was snapped, and from that time until water was being thrown from the nozzle at the end of the block, but 30 seconds had elapsed. The run was about as speedy as one could wish for, and the boys were given hearty cheers. Fireman Hall made the connection with the hydrant.

The run which both Companies No. 1 and 2 made on Brown street late in the evening was thrilling. There was some delay in getting the building in readiness for the onslaught of the firemen, but the people waited patiently. The signal was finally given and Co. No. 1 came tearing down the street with their apparatus. Closely following came Co. 2. The street was illuminated with colored lights, and the appearance of the two companies with their equipment as they came dashing down was exciting to the crowd. The two hydrants, one near the Morgan House and the one opposite the North-Western depot, were used, and both companies made quick connections. The run was given merely as an exhibition and there was no strife between the crews. The delay in getting the shack on fire, owing to the inability to locate the kerosene can, caused Chief Didier to give the order to make the run but not lay hose, but when half way to the shack flames burst out from every corner of it and the original plan of laying the lines was decided upon by the chief, and the fire was promptly extinguished.

The musical numbers given by Field's Military Band during the day were well rendered, and many expressions of pleasure were heard that the city again can boast of a crack musical organization. The band boys presented a fine appearance in their uniforms.

The display of fireworks was postponed until Saturday evening, owing to a heavy rain which soaked things just after supper.

There was dancing in half a dozen places both afternoon and evening, and the dancers were out in force.

Tornado and Cyclone Insurance.

Rhinelander is subject to the cyclone and tornado. Last year the funnel-shaped cloud tore along the city's edge. This year it leveled and devastated the city of New Richmond 150 miles west. In some measure offset the terrible effects of the destroying winds by taking out a tornado or cyclone policy with the Barnes & Harrigan agency. The rate is very low, 20 cents per $100 risk for one year, 40 cents for three years and 60 cents per $100 for five years. Take a policy out in time.

Lay Sermon.

Now there was long war between the house of Saul and the house of David; but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

Pope said "whatever is right." The truth of the aphorism lies a little too deep for convenience, so we will paraphrase it, make it entirely human, and say that whatever is necessary is right. Hence, under a genuine plea of necessity, it becomes perfectly proper for nations to levy war and for men to stand up and shoot at each other. So the world's history is largely a series of combats. It is in the nature of all things that success comes only after struggle. As sunshine comes after storm and darkness, so peace comes, with freedom in its train, only after the black clouds of war.

When Faber said that "right the day must win," of course he made a mental reservation of the exceptions which history reveals. But the rule is truly stated. In the long and bitter contests of the world those nations and systems which have kept nearest to truth, justice, liberty and God have been the winners.

The ancient republics were strong, and while virtue ruled they waxed stronger and stronger. But when vice and effeminacy prevailed, when power and government became the prize of ambition and faction, then barbarians, having the more instinct of freedom, became their conquerors. Spain had the grandest opportunity to become the greatest among the nations. Her possessions were world wide. Her wealth seemed as fabulous as that conjured by Aladdin's Lamp. The tread of her disciplined armies shook the earth. Her navies spread their wings over every ocean. Her warriors were the bravest of the brave. But she repressed the principle of liberty. She not only manacled the limbs and wantonly sacrificed the lives of her children, but she bound their minds and consciences with fetters. Under the malignance of political and religious despots she crushed out the intellectual and spiritual life of her people, and she has waxed steadily weaker and weaker until now, in the dawn of the twentieth century, she is shorn of all her possessions except her little peninsula in Europe, and has become the pity and scorn of the nations. France has been a success or failure in proportion as she has recognized civil and religious freedom. When the climax of Bourbon tyranny had precipitated her great revolution her arms prevailed against the effete monarchies of Europe. But when Napoleon re-established despotism, after a few years of meteoric success, the wheels of progress again stopped, and the empire shrunk to its old dimensions. The tide has ebbed and flowed many times since, but France never has possessed true greatness except as she acknowledged human freedom.

England and Germany are shining examples of national greatness, based on the freedom of the subject, government by constitutional forms, and loyalty born of love and upheld by patriotism. And as you read the history of those great nations you shall see that they waxed stronger and stronger as the idea of personal liberty, civil and religious, has been disseminated. It is not so much their teeming millions, or their vast military and naval power, that has made them predominant, but it is more the spirit of freedom, inspiring the love of justice, liberty, home and fatherland, and the knowledge of the people that they were fighting their own battles.

Of course the most conspicuous example of this is the American Republic. It is almost incredible that from such small beginnings, and in so brief a period, she should have become so great. The answer is that she has been the champion of universal freedom, and has reduced that principle to practice in every department of government. But there is a further answer. Her polity has united and applied all elements of good. Justice and mercy have clasped hands to reform and save the lost. Temples have been reared within her borders for the practice of every creed on earth. The last form of human bondage, legacy of our former masters, has been abolished. Church and State, forever separate, are united in spirit and purpose for education, enlightenment and universal liberty. There is not a citizen whose mind is fettered unless he has willingly put himself in chains. This grand spirit, unique in all history, has realized the noblest consummation of ALEXANDER DEWITT, who has lived in Longbeek, N. Y., for the past 40 years, practically on the bounty of his friends, is now dead, and it is found he has left a fortune of $40,000. Of this he has bequeathed $20,000 to a nephew, who once sent him $15 and who is the only relative that ever manifested any interest in his welfare.

In New Guinea the village of Tupatei is most remarkable. The houses are all supported on piles and stand out in the ocean a considerable distance from shore. This is to protect the villagers from the attacks of the dreaded head hunters, always looking out for victims. Other villages in this queer land are perched up in trees for the same reason.

In the latest history of gambling in England, just published, there are some astonishing revelations as to the amount of money won and lost by men and women whose names were as familiar as household words early in the present century. There are records of $300,000 having been lost at a sitting, and the loss of $50,000 appears to have been a very common occurrence.

Four gold castles presented, with the freedom of their towns, to Adm. Lord Rodney after his victory over the Spanish fleet by the cities of London, Edinburgh and Cork and the borough of Huntington, were sold in London recently. The London castle brought $1,500, Edinburgh castle $1,250, the Cork castle $500 and the Huntington one $900. Each contained the diploma conferring the freedom.

ARNOLD of Congressman Bland's recent death it is interesting to recall what he said to a Washington friend when Mr. Dingley was attacked by his last illness. Despite later political differences these two men were the warmest of friends, and when he heard Mr. Dingley's condition was serious Mr. Bland remarked: "I feel all right now myself, but I somehow think I won't survive Dingley a year."

THE savings and loan bureau established ten years ago by Andrew Carnegie for the benefit of his employees is now the custodian of over $1,000,000, of which interest compounded semi-annually at six per cent is paid. No single deposit exceeds $2,000, the limit set when the company was established. Many employees have also obtained loans from the company, paying six per cent interest, and have been enabled to purchase homes.

SECRETARY OF STATE HAY has caused a social sensation in Washington by appearing at a fashionable morning wedding clad in a cool suit of white flannel. The mercury stood at 100 in the shade and Mr. Hay seemed to be the only man there who experienced no discomfort from the heat. The president and a number of other notables were present, all boxed up in regulation attire, and many of them cast envious glances at the secretary of state.

ON the request of the merchants of the county the supervisors of San Andreas, Cal., adopted an ordinance fixing a license of $10 a month or $25 a quarter, on drummers and peddlers selling goods at retail on foot, and $25 a month, or $50 a quarter, on the same when using vehicles, drummers in the wholesale trade being exempted. The ordinance is aimed at shirt, shoe, clothing and other salesmen selling by sample and subsequently filling orders by mail or express.

THE Central News, of London, says that an Irish member of parliament has received a letter from "an eminent financier in New York" offering to promote and organize a movement for the purchase of Ireland. The writer declares that many hundred millions of dollars could be raised for the purpose, but the whole question must hinge on the desire of Great Britain to dispose of the property. He adds: "All things are possible in this age, and nothing is too big for us to undertake on this side of the water."

A mail train on the Passumpsic division of the Boston & Maine railroad was stopped by forest caterpillars upon the track a few miles north of St. Johnsbury. The pests had gathered in such numbers that the wheels, passing over them, slipped the rails. It frequently occurs that a large amount of sand is required to get a train over an army of the caterpillars on the march from one forest to the other. They are now entering the cocoon state quite rapidly, and their devastations for this year are nearing an end.

JOHN J. HULLINGER, a veteran of the 16th regiment, O. V. I. of Worcester, O., asked to have his pension cut down, as the result of rheumatism contracted in the war. He has been receiving $12 per month, and has been cared for by a daughter. Hullinger asked that his allowance be cut down to $50 per month, as $12 was more than he needed. A special agent sent there to investigate, says no change will be made. Hullinger is an ardent church member, and it is supposed he has scruples against taking more than he needs.

EXPECT FILIPINO ATTACK.

The American Troops Look for an Aggressive Movement Very Soon at San Fernando.

THE INSURGENTS ARE VERY ACTIVE. Strong Force Working Night and Day in the Trenches—United States Soldiers on the Alert—Gen. Otis to Have All the Men He Needs for the War.

Manila, July 1.—A collision between the two armies at San Fernando seems inevitable soon. The insurgents are active all around the town and can be seen working in the trenches to strengthen their position. Day and night forces are at work. It is estimated that 2,000 men were seen marching in the road north of the town Friday morning. The Americans turned out and manned the defenses, expecting an attack. The soldiers sleep in their clothes and breakfast at four o'clock in the morning so as to be ready for another daybreak assault. Gen. Otis is in the hospital suffering with fever. Gen. Grant is commanding his troops on the south line.

Washington, July 1.—One of the members of the cabinet, speaking in connection with the campaign in the Philippines, said: "The president has given Gen. Otis to understand that he is to have all the men necessary in the conduct of the operations against the insurgents. Gen. Otis has been told this in so many words, the president having said to him in effect that if he (Otis) did not have enough men it was his own fault. The president also realizes that the better the men are cared for and their health preserved, the more capable they will be of doing effective work, and before the rainy season began Gen. Otis was instructed to prepare for it, and in various ways was given to understand the president's desire that the soldiers should be well cared for and well fed."

Nine Regiments Wanted. There will be nine regiments raised at once for service in the Philippines. The president discussed the matter Friday morning at the cabinet meeting. Over a week ago it was suggested to the secretary of war that nine regiments, or about 12,000 men, would furnish the additional force required by Gen. Otis in the prosecution of the campaign against the insurgents. There were counter propositions, and it was suggested among other things that the maximum strength of the 25,000 volunteers be utilized. There is a difference of opinion among the army officers as to the force which Gen. Otis should have by the end of the wet season.

Scramble for Commissions. Washington, July 1.—Since the announcement that about 12,000 volunteers were to be mustered into the army for service in the Philippines the president has been deluged with applications for commissions. Almost every congressional caller has one or more applicants whom he presses on the president's attention. The president requests all his visitors to file their applications with Adj. Gen. Corbin, at the same time that the policy of the administration in granting commissions will be to give preference to volunteer officers who showed ability and who performed valuable service during the Spanish war. Some regular officers are also to be given volunteer commissions in the belief that one or two regular officers in a regiment will be of great advantage. The number of officers to be commissioned is being carefully guarded to prevent a scramble.

No More Colored Regiments. New York, July 1.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: No colored regiments will be organized for service in the Philippines. Any colored men enlisted will be assigned to vacancies in the present colored regiments of the regular army. The experience of the war department with colored volunteers during the Spanish war was not a happy one, and, in spite of the reports which come from the Philippines to the effect that the colored man is greatly feared by the Filipinos, the authorities are averse to running the risk of a repetition of the troubles of last year.

Reenlisting Order Issued. Washington, July 1.—The first orders were issued Friday for reenlisting the troops under the clause authorizing the enlistment of 25,000 men. The order contemplates enlisting men for the three skeleton regiments in the Philippines. Reenlisting officers have been instructed to enlist men with this understanding.

Roosevelt Not a Candidate. Albany, N. Y., June 29.—Gov. Roosevelt stopped off in this city Thursday afternoon for a few minutes on his way to New York city from the west and declared that he is not a candidate for the republican nomination for president in 1900, and that he is in favor of renominating President McKinley.

A Thing of the Past. Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—A special to the Times from Fargo, N. D., says: North Dakota as a divorce mecca is a thing of the past. Beginning this morning a year's residence will be necessary for all cases.

Planting Still Halted. Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Smith & Wyman's planting mill, stock sheds and a large quantity of manufactured lumber burned Friday night. Loss, $60,000 to $65,000; partially insured.

Laborers Drowned. Clarksville, Mo., June 30.—Five laborers were drowned in the Mississippi river a mile above here by the overturning of a skiff.

THE TEXAS FLOODS.

Damage by Heavy Rains Will Amount to Millions of Dollars—Some Loss of Life.

Houston, Tex., July 1.—The remarkably heavy rains of the past four days in Texas have done damage which will amount to millions of dollars. Railroad traffic is suspended in South Texas because of the numerous washouts and many bridges are gone. Every stream in this section of the state is above high water mark and the angry waters have destroyed thousands of acres of cotton, corn and cane, besides houses and cattle. At Calvert the rise was so sudden that when the water went through the town several negroes were drowned and five bodies have been recovered. It is rumored that many farmers, white and colored, living in the Brazos bottoms have been drowned, but neither names nor reliable particulars are yet obtainable. The big and little Brazos rivers have joined at Navasota, where they are ordinarily three miles apart, and the whole country between, mostly cotton and corn land, is ruined. It is reliably stated that one family of six persons have perished. The loss in cotton and corn alone will reach a million dollars, while another million will not cover the loss to railroad and other property.

Waco, Tex., July 1.—The Brazos river reached the highest point Friday it has attained in 10 years. Crops in the Brazos bottoms are inundated from six to fifteen feet and in most cases are a total loss. Hundreds of people have fled from the valley and have taken refuge in this city. In East Waco the main street is six feet deep and the business houses are completely under water and all merchandise is ruined.

TAKES TWO LIVES.

John W. Tayer Shoots and Kills the Mayor of Muskegon, Mich., and Then Commits Suicide.

Muskegon, Mich., June 29.—Mayor James Ballhorne was assassinated at noon by J. W. Tayer, a disappointed office-seeker. Tayer shot Mayor Ballhorne while the latter was standing in the doorway of his store. The ball entered his left breast above the nipple. After the shooting Ballhorne turned and ran upstairs to his living rooms and dropped in the hall. He expired 15 minutes later. Tayer swallowed some carbolic acid and then turned the revolver upon himself and fired. The ball entered his left breast. He died at one o'clock.

Mayor Ballhorne was the pioneer resident of this city, having lived here since 1862. He was born in Ontario, April 21, 1828, and later lived in Ottawa. When he came to Muskegon he embarked in the furniture and undertaking business and had acquired a comfortable fortune. He was for three years a member of the board of public works, and in 1898 was elected mayor as a republican, being reelected this spring. He was prominent in fraternal organizations.

Tayer had been a resident of this city for about 25 years. He leaves a wife, but no children. He was a member of Phil Kearney post, G. A. R., having served in the civil war in company K, thirty-eighth Ohio infantry. It was understood that he had been suffering from a slight brain trouble, but he was not thought to be dangerous.

The Famous French Prisoner Is Safely Land and Taken to Military Prison at Brest.

Rennes, July 1.—Capt. Dreyfus arrived here early this morning. The man whose imprisonment on Devil's island has stirred the whole world was not landed at Brest, as official announcements had led the people to expect. Instead, he was brought by the French cruiser Stax to Quiberon, and from there was taken by train to Brest. The distance from Brest to Rennes—about eight miles—was covered in a carriage. Capt. Dreyfus, being accompanied by a high police official. Ten gendarmes, riding in a wagon, followed the carriage, and the other guards followed on foot.

Had News for Farmers.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 1.—Prof. Otto Luggen, of the state agricultural college, said Friday: "I have had news, and here is the messenger that brought it." Opening his hand the professor disclosed a dead grasshopper. He said it was one of the migratory white mountain fellows, and that his coming indicates trouble for the farmers of the northwest.

St. Louis, June 29.—Frank R. Callaway, who has been on trial for murder here for several weeks, was found guilty in the first degree by the jury. Callaway shot his wife on April 19 last in a large department store where she was employed. The judge will pass sentence on him this week.

LIVES LOST ON LAKE ERIE.

The Steamer Margaret Olwill Sinks Off Lorain, O., and Nine Persons Are Drowned.

TERRIFIC GALE CAUSES THE DISASTER. The Ill-Fated Vessel Lost Her Rudder and Was Captured by a Monstrous Wave—Capt. Brown and His Wife and Son Were Among Those Who Perished.

Toledo, O., June 30.—Nine lives were lost by the foundering of the steamship Margaret Olwill in Lake Erie Thursday morning about two o'clock. The following are those who went down: John Brown, captain; Cleveland; Mrs. Brown, wife of Capt. Brown; Cleveland; Richard Brown, son of captain; Miss Hunt, guest of Capt. and Mrs. Brown; Cleveland; W. Doyle, steerman; Cleveland; Geo. Hefron, wheelman; Cleveland; Frank Hefron, watchman; Kelly's Island;—Jama, Cleveland.

John Smith, first mate; Alex Melica, chief engineer; Luke Schinski, and second engineer, were rescued by members of the crew of the steamer Sacramento and taken into Lorain by the tug Cascade. Duncan Coyle was picked up by the passenger steamer State of Ohio and landed at Toledo.

At the Stern's Mercy.

The large Margaret Olwill left Kelly's Island at six o'clock Wednesday night bound for Cleveland with a cargo of stone. There was little or no wind blowing and everything was favorable for a pleasant run. At eight o'clock the wind began to blow from the northwest and the little boat with a thousand tons capacity began to go at a lively clip. At ten o'clock the gale commenced and the wind blew at the rate of 50 miles an hour. Suddenly the gale turned to the northeast and Capt. Brown found that the boat was making little headway and concluded the only thing to do was to turn back and go with the storm. According to the story of Coyle it was two o'clock when the captain gave the order to turn about. The vessel had turned half way round when the rudder chain parted and in an instant the boat was at the mercy of the storm. She was caught between two waves and as she was borne along the top of one of them she rolled over on the side. The cabins came loose from the hull of the large and floated on the water while the rest of the ship went to the bottom. Whether any of the occupants were able to take advantage of this it is not known, but Coyle says he saw Schinski, the second engineer, and Hefron, the wheelman, after the boat went down, but that was all. Coyle caught hold of part of the after cabin and clung upon it. Hefron was clinging to a part of the same cabin.

Rescue of Coyle.

The rescue of Coyle was effected with difficulty. Expert linemen walked up and down the steamer, and every time the big boat could be worked near him a line would be thrown. Finally he reached one of them, and quickly got it around his body. He was more dead than alive when taken in. He was surrounded by the passengers of the boat, who heartily congratulated him on his plucky effort. Capt. Willoughby said that he did not leave the spot till he was sure every person alive had been rescued. "It was an awful gale," said the captain, "and the worst I have seen in years on this lake."

New York, July 1.—Charles M. Murphy, of the Kings County wheelmen, rode a mile on a bicycle, paced by a locomotive, in 27 1/2 seconds Friday. His course was a two-mile board track on a siding of the Long Island railroad. Murphy followed an engine and a day coach, the latter being provided with a hood, which acted as a wind shield for the rider. The board track was laid near Maywood, L. I., and extended from that station two miles east, and was as nearly perfect to a level as still could make it. Fully 3,000 people saw Murphy make his daring ride.

Peace in Panama.

Pana, Ill., June 29.—The departure of state troops and the closing of the mines has resulted in a complete restoration of peace in Pana. COLORED MINERS SHOT.

A Train on the Illinois Central Road Loaded with Negroes Attacked by a Crowd of Strikers.

FIRE A VOLLEY INTO THE CROWDED CARS. One Woman Is Shot Through the Heart—Men Were on Their Way to the Brush Mine Near Cartersville—Intense Excitement Prevails and Bloody Riots Are Expected.

Murphysboro, Ill., July 1.—At nine o'clock Friday morning Conductor William Bryan's train, on the Johnson City branch of the Illinois Central, bearing 47 negro miners from Pana, was shot into by a crowd of miners at Lawder, in Williamson county. One negro woman was killed by a bullet through her heart. The negroes were brought by Sam T. Brush, superintendent of the St. Louis and Big Muddy mines, near Cartersville, to work in his mine, where there is now a strike. The miners, 50 in number, were armed with rifles and were hidden in the grass behind the country depot. When the train stopped the leader, who was an Italian, got on the platform and commanded the negroes to get out. Conductor Bryan interfered, but was stopped by a revolver in his face. The train began to move and the miners poured in a withering fire. Conductor Bryan yelled to the negroes to throw themselves on the floor. All escaped serious wounds save the woman, who was killed instantly. Half a mile further and the negroes were unladen and placed under charge of guards. They were then marched to the mine. Intense excitement prevails in the Cartersville coal field and bloody riots are expected, as the feeling has been intense for weeks.

Scene of Other Conflicts.

The mines operated by Mr. Brush have been the scene of other conflicts and the men have felt bitterly his conduct and disposition toward them. He has persistently refused to recognize the United Mineworkers of America or any other organized body of his employees. He has treated his men only as individuals. For years the battle has raged over his mine and the union has fought him incessantly. In 1896 a serious riot occurred which required the presence of company M, of Marion, and company C, of Carbondale, to put down. Since then the men have been more embittered, as he succeeded in working his shaft with nonunion help.

Victims Take Revenge.

Marion, Ill., July 1.—An attack upon negro miners being imported to take the places of strikers at the Cartersville mines, when bullets flew thick and fast, was avenged by the victims of the deadly assault, when they set fire to Union City, a settlement of the striking miners. The flames spread to every part of the town, and it was almost entirely destroyed, leaving 160 families homeless.

GREAT DAY FOR HARVARD.

Her Boat Crews Win Three Victories Over Yale in Three Hours at New London, Conn.

New London, Conn., June 30.—Harvard won all of the boat races Thursday—three victories over Yale in three hours—and the western sky glowed crimson when the Harvard "arsity" crew pulled over the finish line 6 1/2 lengths ahead of Yale. After eight years of defeat the students of Cambridge are tasting the sweets of success. Harvard's university eight won from Yale over a four-mile course by 6 1/2 lengths in 29 minutes 22 seconds. Harvard's freshmen eight won from Yale over a two-mile course by 2 1/4 lengths in 9 minutes 23 1/2 seconds. Harvard's substitute four won from Yale over a two-mile course by six lengths in 10 minutes and 51 seconds.

More Graves Than People.

Penn Yan, N. Y., June 29.—Penn Yan has more graves in its cemetery than it has living inhabitants. The cemetery is 100 years old and on August 24 the centennial anniversary of the first burial will be celebrated by the town. There are said to be 8,000 bodies buried there, which is more than the town's population.

He was taken to Minocqua and locked up.
